

At Dragon Army, our team is the most important part of our company. And our values are what help us make sure we bring in the right new team members. They are: Team First, Think Positively, and Have Fun. So right off the bat, we need to know if you think these are good values for YOU. If this sounds like your kind of thing, keep reading.

We're a mobile experience company. We strive to build remarkable mobile products and experiences for Fortune 1000 companies. And we're looking for an incredible Mid-level iOS Developer to join our growing team.

Responsibilities

Our developers are obsessive about generating clean and efficient code. You'll be responsible for analyzing and refactoring existing code. This person is comfortable helping with estimating, scoping and prioritizing upcoming work. You'll collaborate with team members to help expand and improve our process and capabilities will be a big part of the role.

Required Skills and Experience

- 2+ years developing iOS apps
- Strong familiarity with Swift
- Experience using Interface Builder and Storyboards
- Experience with integrating REST APIs into client applications
- Has successfully released apps on the App Store is a plus, but not required (please include app names and links when applying)
- Ability to collaborate on a dynamic team of engineers and designers

Desired Skills and Experience

- Ability to use dependency management systems such as Cocoapods
- Knowledge of continuous integration tools such as Jenkins
- Familiarity with distribution of apps to testers through TestFlight or other platforms
- Experience designing and coding persistent storage mechanisms using tools like SQL Lite, Realm, and Core Data
- Experience working with Version Control in a multi-user environment: familiarity with merging, branching, and conflict resolution
- Knowledge of, and practical experience with, design patterns such as MVC
